

Figure 11. Diagram (not to scale) of Klován-style, diver deployed, box coring unit. The slide hammer is threaded into the coring frame. Repeated downward pounding of the hammer forces the coring frame vertically into the sediment. Once fully inserted, the core is enclosed by inserting a removable door along runners on the open side.