Alfred P. Sloan Partners with USF to Create University Centers for Exemplary Mentoring!!

“University of South Florida is developing creative, comprehensive, institution-wide programs to support minority students in STEM. From the classroom, to the lab, to the Provost’s office, the institution is creating an environment where minority STEM students can not only succeed, but thrive.”

- Partnership is designed to identify universities with proven track record of successfully educating underrepresented minority graduate students in STEM disciplines
- Goal is to empower universities to expand, strengthen, and institutionalize efforts aimed at minority recruitment, mentoring, educational support, and professional development
- USF will receive a three-year grant to create and operate their UCEMs
- UCEM will be based out of the successful programs in the College of Marine Sciences and College of Engineering

Alfred P. Sloan Partners with USF to Create University Centers for Exemplary Mentoring!!

The Plan:

- Facilitate new professional development and leadership initiatives that will prepare minority doctoral students for successful transitions into academic, industry, government, and non-traditional STEM careers after graduation
- Provide stipend support to 30 new doctoral students in engineering and oceanography
- Host enrichment activities and a series of professional development seminars
